DID YOU KNOW?

fun facts about polar bears!

Polar bears have black skin and although their fur appears white, it is actually transparent!

Females give birth to their young between November and January while they are hibernating! Cubs will remain with their mothers for a little over 2 years!

The polar bear is the largest and most carnivorous member of the bear family! Feasting mostly on seals they are also known for eating walrus, birds and fish!

With the exception of pregnant females, polar bears do not hibernate in dens like brown and black bears! Instead adult male polar bears and non-pregnant females remain active throughout the year!
